

DISCLOSURE TO APPLICANTS AS REQUIRED BY THE FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT (FCRA)

In considering you as a tenant with _____, ("Company"), we may request and rely upon, initial and periodic consumer reports and or investigative consumer reports obtained from National Application Processing & Screening, Inc., a consumer reporting agency, that contains information bearing on your credit worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character, general reputation, personal characteristics, mode of living, including personal interviews with those acquainted with you. You will be notified if an adverse decision is made, based wholly or partially on the information contained in your consumer report. We may obtain your consumer reports and or investigative consumer reports only if you give us your written authorization to obtain it. If you wish to authorize us to obtain your consumer report, you may indicate your consent by signing the Authorization to Obtain Consumer Reports below.

AUTHORIZATION TO OBTAIN CONSUMER REPORTS

I have read the disclosure (above), and understand that the Company may rely upon initial and periodic consumer reports in considering me as a tenant. I hereby authorize the Company to obtain such initial and periodic consumer reports and or investigative consumer reports, and provide the following identifying information to assist in obtaining accurate consumer reports about me. I hereby authorize the Company to release all information contained in this investigation to all parties involved in the evaluation process for the purpose of confirming my qualifications and/or eligibility. I further understand, if an investigative consumer report is run on me, I have the right to request additional disclosures as to the nature and scope of the investigation and will receive a free copy of the report and a summary of my rights as defined by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. The following is my true and complete legal name and all information on this document is true and correct to the best of my knowledge. Any falsification of the facts or omission of material facts under any circumstances, found during the investigation or at anytime thereafter, constitutes the basis for immediate disqualification as a tenant or potential tenant. I acknowledge receipt of my copy of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's "Summary of Your Rights" under the Fair Credit Reporting Act and certify that I have read and understand my rights. I hereby assert a telephonic facsimile (FAX) or a photographic copy of this authorization shall be as valid as the original.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20006.

You may have additional rights under Maine’s FCRA, Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. 10, Sec 1311 et seq.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.

- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights, contact:
